

The Philosophy Department and The Mattoo Center for India Studies

Lecture By Anita Avramides

Anita Avramides is Southover Manor Trust Fellow in Philosophy at St Hilda's College and Reader in Philosophy of Mind at Oxford University. Her books include Other Minds (Routledge) and Meaning and Mind: An Examination of a Gricean Account of Language (MIT, Bradford Books). In the Autumn, Oxford University Press will publish a volume of papers, Knowing Other Minds, which she has co-edited with Matthew Parrott.

Knowing Others As Persons

This is not a paper about how we know other minds. It is about our knowledge of other persons. It is a critical defense of the idea that I know the thoughts and feelings of others in the same way I know the color of their eyes or hair -- by perception.

September 4th, 2019
214 Harriman Hall
1:00 PM

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION, CONTACT:
DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY
STONY BROOK UNIVERSITY
213 HARRIMAN HALL
STONY BROOK, NY 11794-3750
(631) 632-7570
alissa.betz@stonybrook.edu

