

Stony Brook University

Department of Political Science

POL 390 - TOPICS IN POLITICAL SCIENCE:
POLITICS OF LATIN AMERICA
SUMMER 2024 - SESSION 1
3 CREDITS

Latin America is the region of the developing world with the greatest experience with democracy. It has considerable experience with populist leaders, military rulers, and a few important revolutions. This course offers an introduction to some of the most pressing political topics in Latin America, addressing a variety of political experiences including political history, democratic development, social dynamics, current events, and political research about the region.

Instructor: Vitória Sgorlon

Contact: vitoria.sgorlon@stonybrook.edu

